Science News

This Week in Mr. Van's Class

- *Scores for the new quarter have been entered into Focus. Please look at these with your child. If you see a zero, it's quite likely that assignment wasn't completed. Please note that SS assessments are open book.
- *I'm sure that computer issues and growing pains will continue to challenge all of us. If there are any problems or questions, please email me or contact me through Teams. We can always work things out.
- *Since we are in class during our scheduled times, students should remain in the meeting and on camera unless they receive permission to leave. As teachers, we are required to verify that students are present throughout the day.

Science Fair

Assignment 3 was due last Friday. I'll be going over this with each student this week. The complete project is due November 19. Please make sure that your child is working on this major assignment. Complete details are available on Teams in the Files Section (all students are aware of this location).

Live Class Meetings

Students should arrive at the live meetings with all materials available. Breaks are scheduled throughout the day for personal needs. Students who need to leave a live meeting should ask teacher for permission.

New Groups

To accommodate students who are returning to face-to-face instruction, we have formed new groups. For assessment, homework, and assignment purposes, all students will remain classified by their original homeroom. For accessing online science instruction, students should use the color of their group. Students who were assigned to Mr. Van will be in the Red Group. Those assigned to Ms. Brothers will be in the Purple Group. The students at school with Ms. Taylor will be the Blue Group.
